“He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds.” Psalm 147:3

God is so good! He sees us and he knows when we hurt. He is there binding up our wounds and picking us up in our despair. I am so thankful for promises such as these that God gives us in His Word because I know that He will always keep those promises. When you go through times of struggle, as we all do, I encourage you to cling to Him! He is always there! I am praying that each of the first graders will carry this lesson with them throughout their lives.

The first graders have been busy learning and growing! They are becoming better readers and writers every day and I am so proud of all of their hard work! It's hard to believe that they will soon be second graders and ready for new challenges. Currently, the class is working on compound words in spelling and so the words for the test are longer than usual. The students completed a compare and contrast essay of two sports in writing workshop and they are currently working on an essay about 2 seasons. This topic came from our current unit of study in science as we learn about the four seasons. In social studies, students are focusing on goods and services along with money, bartering, producers, sellers, and buyers. Center time continues to be a favorite in our first-grade classroom! Each week the students get to work with a partner in a phonics, reading, math, art, spelling, or a mystery center. The weeks and months have gone by so fast and I feel so blessed to work with these students and their families in our first grade classroom! Thank you for choosing St. Peters for your child's education!
